

GREAT NORTHERN STRIKE

It is Spreading in All Directions in the Northwest.

MAILS BEING BADLY DELAYED

A Restraining Order Issued by a Judge at St. Paul—The Government Will Watch the Mails and Attempt to Forward Postal Matter—The Men Confident.

St. Paul, Minn., April 19.—The order for the Great Northern men to strike at Minneapolis has been issued. It at first read for 7 o'clock in the morning, but was later changed for 1 o'clock this morning (Thursday).

MARSHALS ON THE TRAINS.

The Men are Peaceable but Firm—North Dakota Without Mails.

St. Paul, April 18.—The judge's restraining order on the strikers was turned over to deputies by the United States marshal and they went out in force on two trains to-day. These trains had an engine at each end, so that the strikers who wished to interfere would find some difficulty in doing so. The reports received in this city from points along the line of the Great Northern were much of the same tenor.

The men announced their peaceable intentions and at the same time, without great violence, preventing the running of any trains, and making up of any new trains. North Dakota points supplied with mail and provisions over the Great Northern are complaining strenuously of their isolation. At Wilmar, Minn., the strikers surrounded their charter in the brotherhood and all joined the American Railway Union, and the company notifying them to that effect. The engineers may follow this point, as it is just the other way at Crookston, where the men refuse to have anything to do with the strikers until ordered to do so by the company.

Three unsuccessful attempts were made to start a train at Moorhead, Minn. At Grand Forks, N. D., all was quiet to-day, the passengers who reached Great Falls on the last train five days ago have been cared for by the company, but they received their last mail from that source to-day, the company notifying them to that effect. The Spokane strikers have a patrol along the line at that point who do double duty.

To Prevent Delayed Mails.

Postal officials are determined to carry into execution every reasonable plan that will tend to overcome the delays in the mails caused by the strike on the Great Northern road. The Department is kept advised of every development in the strike and thousands of words of telegraphic matter concerning postal movements and official instructions wanted reach the Railway Mail Service office in its employees daily.

Assistant General Superintendent Nelson, of the Railway Mail Service, is at St. Paul superintending the arrangements for relieving the postal delays. He left Washington a week ago to make an official trip of inspection and to superintend the quadrupling of mail matter carried on all the railroad routes west of the Missouri river, on which basis compensation for the service during the next four years will be made. He was in St. Paul engaged in this work when the strike was declared, and after placing himself in communication with the Department assumed control of the postal field affected.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 18.—W. A. Morris, attorney for the Great Northern, conferred late this afternoon with the county officials with the object of securing their services in getting out of the county the United States Deputy Marshal Banks is also here, and the company will attempt to make up trains and have the marshals here to serve injunctions in case of interference. BUT TWELVE DAYS MORE Coxey's Commonweal Meeting with but Few Obstacles.

MARSHAL BROWN'S LAST ORDER

The Senate Makes Its First Reference to the Incoming Army—Leaves and Meet Supplied the Unemployed in Ohio—Gen. Frye's Command Increasing.

HANCOCK, Md., April 18.—Coxey's navy sailed into barren seas when it reached Hancock to-day. A run of twenty miles was made between breakfast and sunset, the flotilla drawing up under the Hancock bridge for a late and hasty supper at dusk. But the supper had to come out of the commissary wagon. The town authorities refused to vote either money or provisions to the army, so that crackers and cheese were the best they could get out of their own resources. But a greater reversal than this greeted the leaders. Private charity that might have gone to them had been drained the day before by two traitors of the camp.

The unknown Smith, who had promised to go ahead and pave the way for the army, had done so with a vengeance. He, the veiled lad and "Cheek" Chicks, a young man had been the army's advance agent from Massillon, had come to town the previous day, and holding a money bag, had raised a sum of money, how much could not be learned, on the strength of credentials from Coxey in child's possession.

Brown and Coxey at once published an open letter to Sheriff Charles Hubert, denouncing the men as impostors, and asking their arrest for claiming money under false pretenses. But the three fakirs had flown to Williamsport, the next stopping place of the army, and messages were sent asking their arrest. The sheriff, however, was subject of an unpleasant revelation. Burgess Ditto, of the town council, identifying him as an Indian medicine man who had visited the town three years ago with a patent blood purifier. The Coxey men practically took possession of Hancock after dark.

There being no stipulation, as in Cumberland, to hold them outside of town, they swarmed up from the wharf and filled the saloons on the main streets, drinking freely and talking theology and politics with what natives, who would discuss, through the most of the citizens' staid indoors, leaving the newcomers to their own devices. There were a great many visitors in town, many of the guests of the day, driving over the mountains to see the strange pilgrims.

There were also rumors that a crowd of roughs from the neighboring county had organized to give the Coxey forces a pitched battle, but no actual violence occurred.

K. OF L. MANIFESTO.

The Industrious of the Country Are in Sympathy with Coxey's Movement.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 18.—District Assembly No. 3, K. of L., one of the largest district assemblies in the order, with a membership of 17,000, at their quarterly meeting to-day adopted the following manifesto, which will be sent to every district assembly in the United States, and in which they set their respective faces against the Coxey movement.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 18.—The Senate and House are ever prompt to concede demands of money for the Coxey movement, but when the industrious who made this country what it is today, present their petitions signed by thousands of their class, they are thrown into the waste basket.

The United States has the right to assemble peacefully and present petitions, and to be heard. The representatives of money lenders of Europe go on in palace cars for the same purpose. The industrious of the United States, and the representatives of the United States, are the only ones who are not heard. The industrious of the United States, and the representatives of the United States, are the only ones who are not heard.

BROWN'S LAST ADDRESS.

He Congratulates His Constituency on Leaving Camp on Time.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 18.—Brown's twenty-fourth general order is a gem of common sense and wisdom. The chief marshal said: "There are events in the lives of men like cases in a desert; green spots that can never be effaced from the memory of man so long as reason holds sway. The past three days of the commonweal of Christ have been such spots, and the memory of them will be a comfort to the past. Owing to the wonderful harmony existing among us, owing to your discharging a duty which you have done with honor, and leaving Massillon well camped time."

The order referred in flood terms to the generosity of the people of Cumberland, and the memory of the past three days of the commonweal of Christ compared to the triumphant passage of Cleopatra down the Nile to meet her Mark Antony, the only difference being that the latter was a woman and the former a man. The order also mentioned the fact that the passengers were a band of saltwater brothers, pressing forward to the ultimate hope of freedom from political and financial slavery as harsh as that of Egypt's dreaded queen.

Considered by the Senate.

The Coxey movement received the first recognition at the hands of the Senate yesterday. The question was brought up in executive session and was under consideration for an hour and a half. The Senate remaining in session until 2 o'clock. No formal action was taken, and the matter was considered irregularly upon a suggestion that as there were several organizations of men approaching Washington with the avowed purpose of forcing recognition in the way of legislation, the Congress to decide what it would do in case of the arrival of large numbers of men of this class, and with the purpose of Mr. Coxey's followers.

Senator Harris, speaking for the Committee on Rules, replied to the suggestion by saying that the committee had had the question under consideration, and after an examination of the statutes bearing upon the question of the invasion of the Capitol grounds by organized bodies of men, reached the conclusion that the laws now on the statute books made ample provision for the protection of the building and of Congress, and that the committee had taken the necessary steps to see that the laws were executed.

Called Upon the President.

ALMOST KILLED THE SHERIFF

Polish Laborers in Gros Point, Mich., Riot Viciously with Shovels.

TWO OF THEM SHOT DEAD

A Question of Wages Caused the Trouble. Sheriff Collins Talks to the Crowd—The Counter-Demonstration of a Pole—Many Injured in the Fight That Followed.

DETROIT, April 18.—Wayne county's sheriff lies in a precarious condition to-night, his body lacerated by the shovels of enraged rioters. Two Polish laborers are dead and the number injured is not definitely known. These unfortunate conditions are the result of a conflict at noon to-day between some hundred Poles and Sheriff Collins and five of his deputies.

The riot was brought about by differences of opinion over the wages to be paid laborers by the city water commissioners for digging trenches for pipe laying in Gros Point township, just east of the city limits. The commissioners decided to pay the cubic yard rate, but for the past day or two three hundred Poles had hung about the vicinity, declaring that they would neither work nor allow others to do so unless paid $1.50 per day.

No actual outbreak was anticipated, but as a precaution Sheriff Collins and five deputies went to the scene to protect those who wished to work. Work progressed on a small scale during the morning, but Engineer Williams, becoming alarmed at the aspect of the Hung Poles, ordered the men to stop work and they were instructed to quit work for the time being. Before he returned, however, rioting began. Sheriff Collins and Deputy Stevens, after telephoning for reinforcements, began to attack the mob to pacify them. One of the Poles began an opposition barbecue. The crowd thereupon started to annihilate the officers, and the handful of laborers at work. At the advance the officers drew revolvers and fired over the strikers' heads. But the mob came on and the next volley was discharged into the crowd. Then the officers retreated slowly, firing as they went. Still the mob followed, one man dealing the sheriff a vicious blow on the head with his shovel. The other officers and the workers escaped, all being more or less pounded with shovels. But the helpless sheriff was brutally attacked. The mob then scattered, leaving the sheriff unconscious on the field. Two of the Poles were found dead, John Pielant and a comrade, name unknown.

Another shooting episode took place this evening in the rear of the municipal court building. A group of Poles had congregated and Deputy Sheriff Baranman recognized one of them as rioter. He started to arrest him, when some one in the crowd fired a revolver, hitting the Pole in the leg. At the hospital he gave the name of Tony Gadzinski. Baranman could not find the shot.
